Chairman's Report to Council

FEMA Materials:

Received information that our sister band from Moapa might have some excess materials from a FEMA project they are completing. I contacted their Vice-Chairman Mr. Anderson, he confirmed that they did indeed have excess material and that we were welcome to it. I checked with our FEMA person, Ms. Meghann Olson, and she confirmed that our FEMA program would be able to provide the transport necessary to bring the material, and that she would make all of the arrangements.

Attorney at Law;

I spoke with our newest attorney Ms. Jaclyn R. Johnson, she is with the Rothstein Law Firm. This firm is to represent the tribe during our Garkane ROW negotiations. They were recommended by our General Counsel Ms. Barrow, they have experience in ROW and appraisal work, both of which will be a necessary part of the negotiation process.

I set up a teleconference with Ms. Johnson between myself our administrator Mr. Toya and our IT person Mr. Durant. We gave Ms. Johnson what background we could and informed her that the attorneys for both parties involved had been the ones who doing the communications, that this was the agreed upon course that both Garkane CEO and myself had agreed to. That this would cut down on the miscommunication and that legal language and terms would be expedited.

Amy Mignella:

I and council attended the meeting with Economic Development Director Mr. Wayne Nelson and our Legal Counsel Ms. Amy Mignella ESQ, concerning our on-going contract negotiations for the power allotment that we have received from the Western Area Power Authority (WAPA). Ms. Mignella explained that we still have not received a clear cost to return figure and that the contract needs to be signed by October of this year. We are still waiting on some solid numbers with which to base our decision on.

Insurance:

I and the Administrator along with Finance Director Ms. Cathleen Fisher, engaged in a conference call with Mr. Walt Jazwinski from the Leavitt Group, our insurance providers. We are reviewing our insurance papers to facilitate a short renewal to carry the tribe to the calendar year end so that our insurance premiums will not come due midyear as are doing presently.

As we began to cover the forms that were provided to us from the providers it was discovered that there are many inconsistencies that will need to be covered in person so that examples and explanations can be provided and questions answered. We will be meeting with Walt here in our offices on July 6th.
Western Area Power Authority (WAPA):

The administrator, Economic Development Director, our Legal Counsel Ms. Amy Mignella and myself had a phone conference call with WAPA personnel Mr. Brian Young Concerning the feasibility of the allotment. Mr. Young said that when WAPA sent out information on cost projections that WAPA should sent this information to all new allotted schedule D contractors, the dissemination of information will be better handled in the future and all contractors will be receiving the information. WAPA said that hard numbers for the power are not yet readily available, so we do not have any cost to return projections.

NEWS FROM THE

Water Quality Department

As the summer rolls on I have been busy. I have been working with a former KBOP Water Quality Specialist (WQS) Ms. Sarah Burger on a document called the Quality Assurance Project Plan (QAPP). This document is basically a road map for the proper testing and monitoring of the various springs and streams on KBOP tribal lands. The QAPP must be reviewed and revised every five years and reviewed every year. Because of budget cuts we are working hard to streamline the procedures and make sure that the work and testing and monitoring we do is as efficient as is possible.

In other news, the KBOP has secured funding for a new greenhouse and I have taken on the responsibility of overseeing its construction. This unit will allow us to extend the growing season and will allow us to have a place of instruction for growing plants and conserving our resources, especially water. We invite all who are interested in learning more about this project or visit the site to contact me at the email address below.

Meanwhile in Two Mile Wash: Things are growing well there including weeds. My main focus at this time is to keep the weeds at a minimum and this will permit the native vegetation to flourish.

Please be cognizant of your water usage. As the summer weares on and the dry hot winds continue to blow it is imperative that we all conserve our most precious resource...WATER.

Distracted driving is any activity that could divert a person’s attention away from the primary task of driving. All distractions endanger driver, passenger, and bystander safety. These types of distractions include:

- Texting takes your eyes off the road for 4.6 seconds. At 55 MPH, that’s like driving an entire football field blindfolded.
- Cell phone use was reported in 18% of distraction-related fatalities in America.
- 11% of all drivers under the age of 20 involved in fatal crashes were reported as distracted at the time of the crash. This age group has the largest proportion of drivers who were distracted.
- For drivers 15-19 years old involved in fatal crashes, 21 percent of the distracted drivers were distracted by the use of cell phones.
- A quarter of teens respond to a text message once or more every time they drive. 20 percent of teens and 10 percent of parents admit that they have extended, multi-message text conversations while driving.

Sometimes we all think it won’t happen to me getting into a car accident while on the phone texting or talking. In order for distracted driving to stop it begins with us. Your life and other people’s lives are very important to us. So next time you think before you start texting or making or receiving a phone call, it only takes a few seconds or minutes to safely pull over to the side of the road.
5 Ways to Get Drivers to Stop Texting

More and more passengers are speaking up about texting and driving. If a texting driver is making you nervous but you’re not sure how to bring the topic up, here are some ideas:

1. The direct approach. Say, "I'm sorry, but I get really nervous when people text and drive." Wait to see how the person responds. Most people will admit it's probably not a good idea or they'll at least put down the phone.

2. The subtle approach. If you don't feel comfortable telling a driver to quit texting outright, try hinting: "Would you like me to type for you since you're driving?" Or, since more states are handing out tickets for texting and driving, you could say, "I've seen a lot of cops out today, you might not want to text right now." Or point out things the driver has missed seeing (or narrowly missed hitting). As in, "Did you see that dog/kid/overturned bank truck?"

   If you know the person your driver is texting, ask the driver to hand over the phone so you can say something. Then send a message that says, "Driving, talk to you later."

   If your driver teases you about being nervous, it's the perfect opener to say, "Yeah, texting and driving freaks me out. You never know if the person in front or behind is doing it too."

3. The "Wow, look at that bad driver!" approach. Point out drivers who wander into the next lane, drive 45 on the highway, run a stop sign, or stop at a green light. Then make guesses about who they're texting. Or make up a variation on the punch buggy game, awarding points each time you see a driver who seems to be texting (this has the added benefit of forcing your own driver to focus on the surroundings, not the screen).

4. The group approach. If your whole group thinks a driver is a hazard, make a plan together. Take away the driver's car keys: It's what you're supposed to do with drunk drivers, and studies show that texting drivers are even more dangerous. Or agree not to ride with that person. If several people boycott a driver, he or she will get the message.
5. The life-saving approach. If someone continues to text and drive or mocks you for worrying about it, avoid riding with that person. Let texting drivers know you’re cutting them off (if you feel comfortable doing so) — a little shame makes people think twice about bad habits. Or say something like, "My dad told me I can't ride with you because he says you text and drive."

Speaking of parents: As we all know, it’s not just young drivers who text. If you’re stuck in a car with an adult who is texting (or tweeting or emailing) behind the wheel, be direct and tell them to stop. Most adults know that parents are constantly telling kids not to text and drive, so they should feel embarrassed enough to put down the phone.

If a driver absolutely won't stop texting or laughs at you for being nervous, don't argue. The last thing anyone needs is a road-raging, texting driver. Get out the car as soon as you can. Next time that driver offers to give you a ride, say, "no, thanks."

Pow-wow season is here in August for the tribe. So remember always to wear your seat belt and have children in child restraints. BIA Law Enforcement & Kaibab TMVCIIP Program will be doing Sobriety and Seat belt checks during the Pow-Wow.

Grand Canyon National Park Superintendent Appointment Announced

WASHINGTON – Today, National Park Service Director Jonathan B. Jarvis announced the appointment of Christine S. Lehnertz as superintendent of Grand Canyon National Park. Lehnertz, currently superintendent of Golden Gate National Recreation Area, in northern California, will assume her new post in August.

“Chris brings outstanding leadership skills and an outsider’s perspective to the National Park Service. Since she joined the NPS, she has helped us think differently about conservation, preservation, employee engagement and public collaboration,” said National Park Service Director Jonathan B. Jarvis.

Trained as an environmental biologist, Lehnertz started her conservation career in the Rocky Mountains where she worked as a seasonal wildlife and biological technician for the Colorado Division of Wildlife, the U.S. Forest Service and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Lehnertz spent 16 years with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency before she joined the National Park Service. In 2007, she entered the National Park Service as deputy superintendent at Yellowstone National Park, and then served from 2010 to 2015 as regional director for the NPS’ Pacific West Region. She has been superintendent at Golden Gate National Recreation Area since May 2015. She is a graduate of the University of Colorado at Boulder.

“Together with the staff and managers at the park, I look forward to keeping up momentum on the important conservation, preservation and operational activities at the Grand Canyon” Lehnertz said. “Regarding the sexual harassment issues that we’ve learned about, Grand Canyon National Park now has a responsibility to lead the National Park Service in eliminating the factors that have allowed such behaviors. Staff and managers are already working hard to change the working environment there, to ensure that the Grand Canyon is a respectful, inclusive place to work and visit."

Sue Masica, Intermountain Regional Director said "Grand Canyon National Park connects people to the land and water in an incomparable and inspiring way. We have asked Chris to lead the organization at the Grand Canyon in order to strengthen our employees' connections to the critical NPS mission, and to ensure that we all perform our duties with integrity and to the highest ethical standards. Chris brings a deep commitment to these standards and will help the National Park Service to fulfill them at the Grand Canyon."

Chris and her spouse Shari Dagg, and their cat Choco, look forward to settling in and living on the South Rim of the Grand Canyon this autumn.

Grand Canyon National Park receives close to five million visitors each year and includes over a million acres of land. The park is 277 miles long – the canyon carved over millions of years by the Colorado River. Grand Canyon is known throughout the world for its intricate and colorful landscape. The oldest human artifacts are nearly 12,000 years old, and there has been continuous use and occupation of the park since that time. Eleven traditionally associated tribes are actively involved with the National Park Service at the Grand Canyon.

Book Selection: “Those Across the River” by Christopher Buehlman

Haunted by memories of the Great War, failed academic Frank Nichols and his wife have arrived in the sleepy Georgia town of Whitbrow, where Frank hopes to write a history of his family’s old estate—the Savoyard Plantation—and the horrors that occurred there. At first their new life seems to be everything they wanted. But under the facade of summer socials and small-town charm, there is an unspoken dread that the townsmen have lived with for generations. A presence that demands sacrifice.

It comes from the shadowy woods across the river, where the ruins of the Savoyard Plantation still stand. Where a long-smoldering debt of blood has never been forgotten.

Where it has been waiting for Frank Nichols…

If you are not able to attend, but would like to read the book and participate, please email me for the book report form.

<td>Original three-dimensional artwork. It exists in-the-round and can be seen from all sides. Bas Relief is sculpture that hangs on a wall, usually having one flat side. It is classified as sculpture because it has tactile dimension. Sculpture is defined as a work of art produced by carving, casting, modeling or constructing. Materials used might be traditional such as stone, wood, clay, metal and glass, or less traditional materials such as plastics, paper or cardboard. All sculpture must be original and not cast or created from pre-formed molds or forms. Sculptures cast from the artist’s original work must indicate the number (in the edition) and the size of the edition. If it is an unlimited edition it must be marked as such.</td>

Miss Taylor Susan, Miss Indian Arizona was travelling around through her home state making visits to AZ Native Tribes and reservations.

She is personally thanking all those who have contributed to the Miss Indian Arizona Pageant/Scholarship Program.

Her rein is over this year and she was very adamant to go out and meet her native peoples.

Miss Susan was a joy to meet and we wish her well in all of her endeavors.
