Happy February!

The new year has brought many issues and concerns to our Tribe. I want to provide tribal members with an update on Bears Ears National Monument and Grand Staircase Escalante National Monument and Presidential Proclamation 9681 and 9682 reducing the boundaries of the original Monuments. Our Tribal Council is aware of the situation and is working with our Cultural Resource Department on how best to move forward. We realize these Monuments are important areas to our people and want to protect and preserve our traditional territories. We have reached out to BLM to schedule meetings with our Tribal Council and will be deciding if the Tribe will become a cooperating agency in the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to be prepared under the Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) Regulations.

Thank you
Ona Segundo

Each employee is required to sign a confidentiality agreement. Violation of this agreement can result in immediate dismissal.
I get different emails and information from different publications. I came across this recently and I wanted to share. This just highlights the ingenuity of people to come up with ideas to make our world a little better. Enjoy:

Cars today are hyper-capable. As they’ve gained computing power, they have developed abilities far beyond transportation. Not only can they function as Wi-Fi hotspots, energy storage batteries, and backup power generators; they can also serve as a remote control to turn on the lights in your home. And Ford engineers have recently added drinking water production to the automobile’s long list of available features. Doug Martin and John Rollinger, automotive engineers at Ford Motor Company, were inspired by a billboard in Lima, Peru, that collects and filters water from humidity in coastal air. So they designed an onboard system that collects condensation from a car’s air conditioning coils, then filters and dispenses it, making use of water that is traditionally wasted and allowed to drain on the road.

“Turn a switch inside the car, and a pump sends water from the reservoir up and out a spout mounted near the front console. The water arrives chilled because it condensed on the cool surfaces of the air-conditioner coils,” Mr. Rollinger told the New York Times. The prototype was selected as one of the winners of Ford’s innovation contest in 2016 and is currently in the patent review process. With the extensive number of appliances and gadgets in our homes that create condensation, from air conditioners to refrigerators, the potential for atmospheric water generation seems great. Turning cars—or any appliance—into water generators may not only provide an opportunity to make a utilitarian device more useful; it may save lives.

1.2 billion people today lack access to clean drinking water. As water scarcity affects more populations worldwide, atmospheric water production technology could help alleviate water stress. “There are people in a lot of locations who don’t have easy access to fresh water—arid regions, remote regions,” Mr. Martin said. “But even in a market like the US, this might be a feature for people who want to have extremely pure, clean water and don’t want water bottles filling up the landfill.”

If a car can collect water from air conditioning coils, what other devices could be adapted to provide clean drinking water? WE

Hunters Safety Utah/Arizona

Every year we have Tribal Members wanting there kids\Children to come to the Reservation and hunt, the Tribe has a Hunting Ordinance which states:

K) MINOR HUNTING

1) All minors the age of Twelve (12) year old and eighteen (17) years of age must be accompanied by an adult eighteen years or older and have a valid hunters safety card from either this Department or the State. The minor must be in sight at all times and never allowed to walk along at any time.

So this Department has put a Tribal Hunters Safety Course on every October, during the Youth Hunt, this Department feels that youth should attend Hunters Safety in the state you live in, so I have contacted both Utah Division of Wildlife Resources (UDWR) and Arizona Game & Fish (AZG&F) and both states have it on internet you have two options 1) sign up for the Traditional Class or 2) On line, when completed you have to go to a field day to finish.

UDWR– you can find Class locations and dates for both type at:

https://wildlife.utah.gov/hunter-education.html

AZG&F – You have to be 9 years old or older, the website is:

https://www.azgf.com/Education/hunting/

This Department hopes all youth will attend the nearest Hunter Safety Course for your state so the youth can enjoy the hunting within their state and on the Reservation.

When this Department does the hunter safety course we ask that parents or a family member be with them because that is who they will be with while hunting, out in the field, this is only good on this Reservation that is why you should get one from the state.

Be aware of the deer along Pipe Springs Road, don’t drive fast and give them plenty of room, but if you hit one you need to report it to the Wildlife Department.

This Department is hearing rumors of Non-Indians hunting Coyotes on the Reservation at Night, if you know who it is please let me know or if you see anything suspicious call BIA Police.

Trapper – He has had a Trap taken, if you have or know who has it please turn it in to this Department.

If you have any questions about any of the above mentioned items please call me or come in and talk to me about it, Thank you for your time in reading this.
"The IT Department will be upgrading our network to include two new Network Attached Storage devices (NAS).

This will greatly enhance our ability to gather, secure, and manage our Tribal data.

The projected upgrade has already begun and will be completed at the end of February 2018.

Your interest and questions are welcomed.

Also, please note that I have an open-door policy.

All requests are listened to, and all requests that are approved by management are discussed in our team meetings and implemented as agreed upon by the regular tribal leadership channels.

Kind regards,

Ron LeBaron

The Restaurant otherwise known as Hatch Valley Grill Pizza Voila, or by some as the Kai'vi'vits Grill is getting ready to open. We have ordered all the equipment, done surveys throughout the community, and tried to figure out exactly what everyone wants.

In the end, we have come up with an extremely robust menu for such a small footprint. We will proudly serve Pizza, Tacos, Burritos, Burgers, Hot Dogs, and Chicken. In addition, we will have both a Breakfast and Regular Menu, as well as Deserts from Cheesecake to Cookies and Fried Ice Cream. Our signature dish will be an Indian Fried bread (if everything goes as planned) and we were promised that it will be delicious.

We are excited to bring the restaurant to life, but it wasn’t easy to turn what was originally built out as a Subway into “Our” Hatch Valley, (Kai’vi’vits) Grill. We were required to re run 9 new electrical lines, as well as re-plumb several areas. We needed to add a hood vent, which proved to be one of the most challenging aspects of the new space. We needed to replace the ceiling, and is some areas add an entirely new ceiling as one was not provided. Air condition ducts needed to be re-configured, and new fixtures added throughout the restaurant. Lastly, we even needed to add a back door as some how this was over looked in the original plans. But in the end, I think you’ll agree it has turned out great!!!
I believe we will have something that we can all be proud to call our own. However, with any new concept, and this one will be new to everyone involved, there will be room for improvement. So, we are reaching out to each of you for your help. Please come to the grill, try our items then give us some honest feedback, good as well as constructive so we can make this the best that it can be. It’s not too late to apply for one of the new positions. We have extended an offer to the new Manager, and we have done several interviews with great candidates for Crew Leader and Crew member, but if you’re interested don’t hesitate to drop by a resume or fill out an application to Kim Nuttall in Human Resources.

Even though we are not 100% complete, we thought we would share a few pictures of the journey we have taken together. Our projected Grand Opening will be sometime in March.

Get your taste buds ready ........Bon Appetit!!!!!
